

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: Love at first sight.

Learning Outcome

Describe events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you believe in love at first sight? Why?
- How long have you believed in love at first sight?

Can Do Statements

- I can say and use words like unbelievable.
- I can pronounce questions like "How long have you been ... "
- I can pronounce words with the same consonant sound.

Let's Explore!

When Sally meets a mystery man it is love at first sight.

* "Love at first sight" means an instant attraction to someone or something.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

My weekend was an unbelievable event. I had an unimaginable Saturday evening. I went out to dinner, I went to a costume party at a dance club. At the club, I met the most amazing man. Now, I'm a big girl, but for me, meeting someone in a club is unthinkable. I was dressed as a cat and I was having a great time dancing with Steve when I heard someone behind me talking in a strange language. I turned around and looked and I saw the most handsome man I had ever seen. He looked just like Bruce Lee. His costume was unusual. He wore big glasses, some makeup and dark colored clothes. I walked back to the table and when Steve went to the bathroom, Bruce Lee came over. He leaned in and asked me, "Hi, do you speak Korean?"

"Ah ... No."

"Well, when I was talking to my friend, you glanced over. I thought maybe you spoke Korean."

I smiled. Then he asked me some questions like:

"How long have you been such a good dancer?" "How long have you been a fan of cats?"

He asked me what I did and I told him I wrote a blog. Then he asked, "How long have you been doing that?" We talked some more, but I couldn't take my eyes off him. He was not unlikeable ... at all. Finally, he smiled that amazing smile and asked, "How long have you been this beautiful?"

I melted. It was magical.

Let's Practice!

Here's what Sally recalls from the boy she met.

Instructions: Match the words in Column A with their missing parts in Column B.

COLUMN A

1. He had
2. He wore
3. He had dark
4. He spoke

COLUMN B

- a. Korean.
- b. colored eyes.
- c. some makeup.
- d. big glasses.

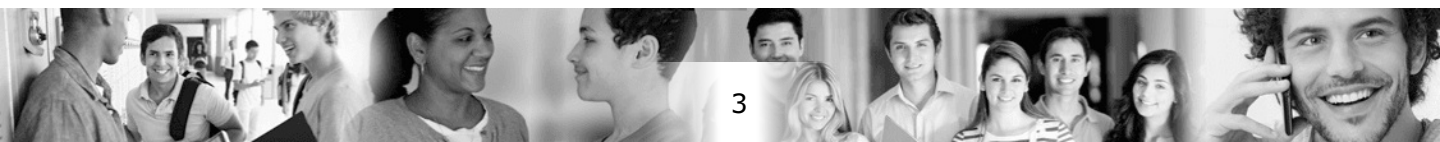

Let's Practice!

The new boy has some questions for Sally.

Instructions: Complete the text below by choosing from the options you are given.

this beautiful / looking at him / such a good dancer / such a bad dancer / a fan of cats / this pretty / doing that / a fan of dogs.

"Well, when I was talking to my friend, you glanced over. I thought maybe you spoke Korean." I smiled. Then he asked me some questions like: "How long have you been _____?" "How long have you been _____?" He asked me what I did and I told him I wrote a blog. Then he asked, "How long have you been _____?" We talked some more, but I couldn't take my eyes off him. He was not unlikeable ... at all. Finally, he smiled that amazing smile and asked, "How long have you been _____?"

Extension Activity

An interview with a famous celebrity!

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Students brainstorm some famous celebrities.
- In pairs, create some questions about personal experiences that you would like to ask a celebrity. Also ask how long they have been doing various things.
- Switch pairs, one student is a famous celebrity and one is a reporter.
- The reporter questions the celebrity and the celebrity answers. The reporter should respond using target vocabulary like unbelievable.
- Switch partners.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I say and use words like unbelievable.

☐
☐

I pronounce questions like "How long have you been ..."

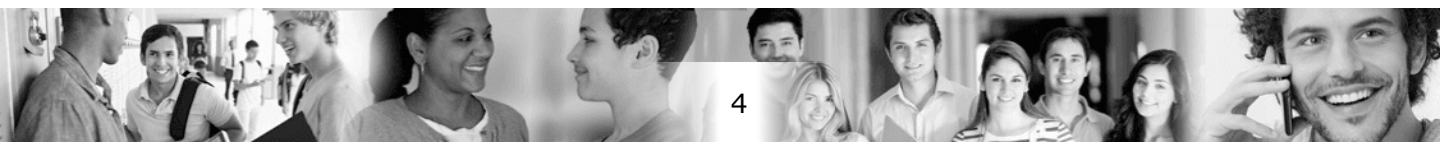

☐
☐

I can develop questions about experience.

☐
☐

Target Words

- unbelievable (adjective): unlikely or difficult to believe
e.g. My weekend was an unbelievable event.
- unlikeable (adjective): not likely to be liked
e.g. He was not unlikeable ... at all.
- unthinkable (adjective): impossible to conceive
e.g. Meeting someone in a club is unthinkable.
- to glance (verb): to look quickly or briefly
e.g. Well, when I was talking to my friend, you glanced over.
- to melt (verb): to soften someone's feelings and emotions
e.g. I melted. It was magical.
- couldn't take my eyes off of someone (expression): used when it is hard to stop looking at someone e.g. We talked some more, but I couldn't take my eyes off him.
- love at first sight (expression): a feeling of warm personal attachment or deep affection
e.g. As soon as I saw him I melted. I believe it was love at first sight.

Learning Points

Linking Words with the Same Consonant Sound

Linking words with the same consonant sounds smoothly connect one word to the next when speaking.

If a word that ends in a consonant sound is immediately followed by another word that starts with the same consonant sound, you pronounce the two consonants as one sound.

Practice pronouncing the linking words in the following examples.

P-P	G-G	D-D	T-T	R-R	K-C
step parent	Big girl	red dish	get ten	wear red	dark color
step p arent	big g irl	red d ish	get t en	wear r ed	dar k color

Examples:

- I'm a big girl, but for me, meeting someone in a club is unthinkable.
- He wore big glasses, some makeup and dark colored clothes.
- Hi, do you speak Korean?

Learning Points

Pronouncing words with -able

One of the most common suffixes is -able. This changes a verb to an adjective.

If you remove -able from a word, you are left with a complete word (breakable, break).

-able is pronounced /əbl/

You stress the 'a' that comes right before 'ble'

For example:

To think - think-a-ble

To believe - believe-a-ble

Say these words. Stress the bolded syllable.

replace-a-ble reli-a-ble

believe-a-ble think-a-ble

imagine-a-ble like-a-ble

Add the prefix -un:

un-replace-a-ble

un-reli-a-ble

un-believe-a-ble

un-imagine-a-ble

un-think-a-ble

un-like-a-ble

The prefix -un does not change the stress, it changes the meaning of the word.

Examples:

- My weekend was an unbelievable event.
- I had an unimaginable Saturday evening.
- Meeting someone in a club is unthinkable.
- He was not unlikeable.